Commander: GEN John G. Coburn
Headquarters: Alexandria, Va.
Established: Aug. 1, 1962
Mission: AMC is the Army's principal materiel-development and readiness command. AMC provides materiel readiness through technology, acquisition and materiel development, as well as logistics power projection and sustainment across the spectrum of military operations. Its missions include the development of weapon systems, advanced research on future technologies, and maintenance and distribution of spare parts and equipment. AMC works closely with industry, academe and other military services and government agencies to develop and acquire almost every piece of equipment soldiers and units need to accomplish their missions. AMC has 59 installations in 39 states and more than a dozen countries.

Commander: BG David W. Foley
Headquarters: Fort Belvoir, Va.
Established: Sept. 17, 1971
Mission: CID investigates felony violations of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and other criminal provisions of the United States Code in which the Army has an interest. The agency also provides protective services for senior Defense Department and Army leaders, and supports field commanders and communities to solve major and violent crimes.

Responsibilities: As the primary provider of criminal investigative support to the Army, CID operates a forensic laboratory, criminal-records repository, procurement fraud unit and counternarcotics investigations. It solves crimes, assesses the potential for crime and prevents felony crimes against the Army, its soldiers, family members and employees. CID also provides forces for peacetime and battlefield investigations, including logistics security, criminal intelligence collection, criminal investigations, protective-services operations and war crimes investigations.
